LANDMANN black pearl with a world first

First kettle barbecue with height-adjustable grill

OptiHeat system for simple intuitive handling

The world's first kettle barbecue with height-adjustable grill is now available from Landmann. Surely good news for all who enjoy juicy steaks, spare ribs and barbecued sausages.

LANDMANN's black pearl comfort is standard-fitted with the OptiHeat system. Its advantages are plain to see: optimal temperature control when grilling barbecue food directly. The grill's three height positions make achieving the right temperature easy at all times. Handling is simple and intuitive. Ergonomically-shaped handles also simplify raising and lowering. Simply turn and set the grill in the pre-set grooves to adjust to any one of three positions.

The LANDMANN black pearl comfort has more practical features. The enameled coal grate and fire-bowl are quick and easy to clean. That also applies to the large ash pan for easy disposal of ash and cinders. The lid – also enameled – is fitted with a thermometer, so the chef is always aware of the exact temperature.

The ventilation slit for optimal regulation of the oxygen supply is also found there, supported by the enameled chimney. A heat shield under the handle on the lid ensures the hand is always in a safe area. A practical cutlery holder is positioned on the outside of the barbecue. A coal divider supports indirect grilling.
